Action Items

1. Curriculum Proposals

Discussion Items

1. Program Mapping and Guided Pathways – Deanna Murrell

- a. Moreno Valley has developed program maps under the guided pathways framework so that students can see the courses that they need to take to complete their program term-by-term. Students can work closely with faculty to develop checklists for each term and the maps also help link the students to careers and further education. With the development of this and the integration into EduNav, the question regarding where the review process would lie for these maps has arisen. There may be a need for some district alignment around this process. Because of this, Tech Review or DCC may be the appropriate place for discussion.
- b. Ann Pfeifle – Because the curriculum committees see program and course changes as they come through the process, curriculum may be the appropriate place for the review process.
- c. Steven Schmidt – When a modified program comes through, there is already program sheet that accompanies the proposal. Perhaps the program map can come through as well.
- d. Ann Pfeifle – There may be a need for once-a-year meeting in the spring where all the maps can be updated.
- e. Casandra Greene – Casandra indicated that at Riverside she works with the guided pathways coordinator on program maps. The two created a timeline that has revisions after the curriculum deadline for the catalog.
 - i. One note of caution – A program map is a faculty recommendation of what they think is best, not a contract with the student. The student is able to deviate from the program map, take classes outside of the recommendation, and still complete the program. Also, the program maps may also help to indicate what courses need to be offered more frequently and on a rotating basis.
 - ii. The updates may also not be just regarding curriculum changes. The faculty who work with the students may identify that the information communicated through the maps is confusing or needs to be changed. The recommendation could also be for courses outside of the program, specific to completing GE, for example.
- f. Nick Franco – At Norco, a counselor works on the guided pathways. Each year when the ADT advising sheets are updated, those changes are sent to the counselor, and the counselor makes changes to the guided pathway sheet as well.
- g. Kelly Douglass – It seems that this information would be shared with counseling through guided pathways. Curriculum review is not being performed when reviewing a program map.
- h. Jeanne Howard – It may just be an issue of closing the communication gap. Changes must be made to the maps on a yearly basis due to any curriculum changes. The changes also need to be updated in EduNav. In articulation, the officers update lists and ensure that Colleague and degree audit have been updated with all the changes.
- i. Kelly Douglass – What’s the most efficient and effective way to achieve this? It appears that Casandra and Monique have developed a timeline, but how does the information get sent to guided pathways?

- j. Recommendations:
- i. Steven Schmidt – Although it is an issue that is related to curriculum, it appears to be a discipline-faculty-counseling communication issue. There is a technical issue regarding if the titles or numbers of courses change, but this is a clerical issue.
 - ii. Ann Pfeifle – Each college can then have its own procedure for how to approach this.
 - iii. Kelly Douglass – A designated review period where the curriculum specialists, guided pathways counselor, and articulation officer are working together seems like a good starting point.
 - iv. Casandra Greene – Perhaps the coordinators could work with the guided pathway coordinator, who then goes to work with the faculty. A suggestion could be that in February or March the review is done alongside the catalog. The guided pathways coordinators and the coordinators should be brought together in February. There may be items that can be done more efficiently if everyone meets together.
 - v. Nick Franco – The program maps should be reviewed by discipline faculty.
- k. Deanne Murrell – The guided pathways coordinator position may not be permanent, which could present an issue.
- l. Jeannie Kim – There is no guarantee of having guided pathways coordinators for the long haul. They may continue for the immediate future, but how they continue and in what form has not yet been decided. The review is supposed to become a part of our regular processes, the idea is to make those changes so that they are inherent. There's also a technology system that is in the beginning stages at Bakersfield.
- m. Melissa Bader – The maps themselves live in a middle space between program review and assessment. The colleges have slightly different program review, and they should be able to make that decision for themselves. The maps can be different across the colleges. There is a person at Norco who is responsible for gathering the information and getting the changes made in EduNav. That person also tries to ensure that the offerings on the pathway are accurate.
2. CSU GE Area F Deadlines – Kelly Douglass
- a. With the upcoming deadlines and the need to have ETS courses in the catalog, the following was proposed:
 - i. Can any ETS new courses and their crosslisted counterpart major modification be launched by October 23 and pushed directly to Tech Review as long as there are discipline review minutes that have been documented?
 - ii. Additionally, can department minutes be attached post launch as many departments are meeting after the launch deadline?
 - b. The committee agreed with the above suggestions.
 - c. Ellen Brown-Drinkwater – Academic Standards should be brought together to discuss the GE Plan A for Ethnic Studies. It doesn't need to be done for the next catalog, but it should be worked on.

- i. Kelly Douglass – At the November 10 college meeting, perhaps we can ask for volunteers for academic standards. Then at the February college meeting that conversation can be revisited.
 - d. Bryan Nicol – For any items launched, please push forward to Level 4 Admin Review. This is where items are collected for the Tech Review Agenda. Bryan indicated he would reach out to the chairs prior to setting the Tech Review agenda to ensure he has captured all the ETS related courses.
 - e. Jeanne Howard – Requested that a list of any potential courses also be sent to the articulation officers so they can begin reviewing.
3. Correspondence Courses and DE – Brian Johnson
 - a. The question was raised regarding whether correspondence courses were appropriate to be offered during emergency closures by Norco to the prison population. The correspondence proposals on the agenda were approved.
4. AOE Revision Process – Bryan Nicol
 - a. The committee agreed that a list of course deletions impacting AOE's can be presented at the final DCC and changes can be made administratively. Similarly, any new honors courses that have a non-honors counterpart already in an AOE can also be added administratively.
